 The Lynx - Robotic Feeding System

The Lynx is a new advanced automatic robotic feeding system that uses end-of-arm tooling, vision positioning, and robot mounting to handle various packaging parts. What truly sets the Lynx apart is its remarkable flexibility of formats. The system can handle packaging parts of different shapes and sizes, such as desiccants, scoops, syringes, measuring cups, and more, with minimal changeover time and cost. The Lynx's robotic arm technology enables it to pick and place parts quickly and accurately, making it an excellent choice for packaging companies looking to automate their processes and increase efficiency.
